

Production Process

MOBILIA's production process begins with the design. All design concept (Standard product, modified product, and custom product) are translated through the quotation process into CAD drawings. Drawings are supplied to customers to be reviewed, revised, and signed off as approved. These approved drawings are used to construct all MOBILIA products. All products are manufactured as ordered, by hand. Below is an example of a custom conference table. The pictures follow the design from concept to installation.
